

Imprint No.: 1808.046

Short Title: Prospectus for Ligon's Arithmetic Improved (A).

Author: Ligon, William Sr. (1762-1838).

Title: Arithmetic Improved, or a summary system of common and decimal arithmetic, collaterally & concisely combined in every rule. By William Ligon, Senr. Prince Edward, Virginia. 1808.

Place Issued: Richmond

Issuing Press: Uncertain

Description: 1 sheet [1 pg.]; 11 cm, x 21 cm. (broadside).

Notes: Prospectus for Ligon's Arithmetic Improved; or, A Summary System of Common and Decimal Arithmetic, Collaterally and Concisely Combined in Every Rule, with a solicitation for subscribers for its publication; that text was published in Richmond in 1810 (1810.027).

One of two variants of Ligon's solicitation; the other (1808.047) has a slightly different text.

Sheet lacks colophon; as Ligon entered a copy right for this work at the federal district court in Richmond in August 1808, and the actual textbook issued from a Richmond press, this title is presumed to have been printed there as well, though the issuing press remains uncertain.
