Notes: Earliest surviving number (September 21, 1812) is paper's initial issue; the latest surviving number known (October 2, 1813) indicates paper continued into its second volume/year, despite litigation against Rhoades initiated in May 1813 by James Williamson, his former master, over Rhoades's breach of his contract with Williamson in printing the antecedent Spirit of the Press; this paper had ceased publication by time of a second trial that ensued from that initial suit in February 1814, so end date reported here.
